Security policy since Snowden

Pirate Security Conference

Ring Studios Munich

24th and 25th January 2015

Security policy since Snowden

New challenges to security policy demand new approaches. The Pirate Party ponders on the question of how security policy can be defined anew in the 21st century and how it can be efficiently implemented without jeopardizing the liberal cornerstones of our society. For that, we convene an international conference on security policy in Munich that will feature prominent speakers discussing current challenges and possible solutions to security policy.

Topics

› New challenges for international security policy
› Possible terrorist threats – facts, myths and reality
› Critical infrastructures and how we protect these

A special time slot will be reserved for presentations focusing on the latest upcoming political topics, yet to be defined

Speakers et al

› Angelika Beer, MdL
› Yvonne Hofstetter, Big Data entrepreneur and author
› Dr. Rob Imre, researcher,
› Enno Lenze, publisher
› Stephane Koch, digital strategy advisor
› Dr. Daniel Jäger, researcher
